Need Third Vehicle Says Rescue Squad

There's increasing need for a third ambulance, says Rescue Squad reporter Grover Beasley, Jr., noting that a car accident early Sunday morning left the county without Rescue Squad vehicle service for more than four hours. "This is the third time it's happened this year," says Beasley.

During June the Appomattox County Rescue Squad drove 1,342 miles using up 149 man hours on 27 calls, including 5 heart patients, 7 broken bones, one gunshot, two fainting seizures, two transported by doctor's request, one "stomach pain", four wrecks, one obstetrical, one bicycle injury, one food poisoning, one hemorrhage, one convulsion.

From Thursday through Sunday the Squad put in 161 hours on stand-by service for the Fourth of July holiday, not counting hours spent on actual calls.

Wreck Injures 5

Four Rescue Squad men used 16 man hours to treat and transport five young men injured in a one-car accident early Sunday morning that left this 1957 model car a jumbled wreck wrapped around a tree and suspended eight feet from the ground off Road 626 near Holliday Lake. Anderson Scruggs, Ray Noble and Richard Bartelt (above) examine the blood stained wreckage now at Moses Motors' lot in Appomattox. Squadmen estimate that $7-$8 worth of bandages were used to give emergency care to the five passengers, plus linens, transportation costs, etc. All of them were thrown from the car upon impact with a tree. Jimmy Rogers (not shown) also answered the call to the Squad and both vehicles were used to rush the accident victims to Lynchburg General Hospital. "They're lucky to be living", said Scruggs.

You want to move up to a modern home. But you don want to move.

The home you bought five or ten years ago was probably all you needed at the time. It had just enough bedrooms, a reasonably up-to-date kitchen, and a cold basement with "possibilities."

As the world turned, your family grew larger and your home grew older. You now have too few bedrooms, a cramped, inefficient kitchen, and a cold basement—still with possibilities.

This might have been the year you planned to move up to a bigger, more modern home. But you didn't plan on the high cost of home financing.

You want to move up to a modern home. But right now you don't want to move.

More room and comfort with electric heat.

We can show you how today's modern electric heating systems can give you more living space and more year-round comfort with far less problems and maintenance than your present system. Often with existing ducts and pipes.

We can also show you how electric heat simplifies adding extra rooms such as a bedroom, bathroom, or den—and gives you a new feature of total electric comfort: room-by-room temperature control.

That cold, dark basement with your old furnace can be made roomier and cozier by tearing out the furnace and fuel tanks and installing radiant panel ceiling heat. More room, an attractive new ceiling, and today's modern electric heat.

One of our Vepco-recommended Reddy Kilowatt Heating and Cooling Contractors can handle the whole job, including insulation and storm windows if needed. The Reddy Kilowatt Contractor is listed in your yellow pages under "heating contractors."

A modern, work-saving kitchen.

Perhaps the most dramatic modernizing can be done in the kitchen. With the latest work-saving electric appliances and the kind of space planning that saves steps and work. Vepco's staff of home economists will consult with you and help plan the kind of kitchen you've always wanted. Without charging you a cent.

Our staff of Live-Better-Electrically experts wants to help.

Whether you're interested in moving up, clean flameless electric heat, planning a new heating system, or modernizing your kitchen, we want to help. With free information. With free advice and plans.

To help you get started, we'll send you our free home modernizing idea book. Just mail the coupon below or call Vepco at 771-3655.
